

eternity in their hearts

yet they cannot fathom what God has done
from beginning to end.

ECCLESIASTES 3: 11

The background features a dark blue gradient with a series of curved, parallel lines that create a sense of depth and movement. On the right side, there is a grid-like pattern of light blue lines that recedes into the distance, giving the impression of a tunnel or a perspective view. The overall aesthetic is modern and digital.

“that which is finite can never be able to comprehend the reasons, motives, and methods of that which is infinite. It doth not become us to be [impatient], because God hath not admitted us into the debates of eternity.”

STEPHEN CHARNOCK

The Existence and Attributes of God

“God is immutable in regard of knowledge. God hath known from all eternity all that which he can know, so that nothing is hid from him. He knows not at present any more than he hath known from eternity: and that which he knows now he always knows”

STEPHEN CHARNOCK

The background features a dark blue gradient with a series of curved, parallel lines that create a sense of depth and movement. A bright, glowing light source on the right side illuminates the scene, casting a soft glow across the curves. A grid of fine, light-colored lines is visible, particularly in the lower right quadrant, adding a technical or digital feel to the overall aesthetic.

“That God appears at time’s beginning is not too difficult to comprehend, but that He appears at the beginning and the end of time simultaneously is not so easy to grasp; yet it is true. For Him everything that will happen has already happened.”
